

EDITORIAL POLICY

A digest of "Linguistic Herald" publishes papers of scientists and experts of scientific-research organizations, higher educational institutions of I-IV accreditation levels of Ukraine and other countries on topical issues of linguistics. This is an interactive platform for pilot projects, new concepts, professional dialogue, problem-based discussions, experience exchange, popularization of knowledge.

The mission of the journal lies in the coverage and wide discussion of the latest achievements of domestic and foreign linguistics, the development of international scientific cooperation in the field of linguistics.

The main objective of the journal is the creation of a common platform for information and discussion among the representatives of the leading linguistic schools of Ukraine and the world, which will contribute to the deeper understanding of linguistic processes in the modern global society.

The papers are published in Ukrainian, English, Russian, French, German and Spanish.

The papers submitted to the digest undergo internal and external review from the point of view of relevance, novelty, innovative formulation of the problem, clarity of research questions and tasks, the consistency and validity of findings.

The editorial Board is aware of its responsibility for the proper presentation of research results, in particular on the legal and ethical aspects of publication.

1. Authorship and copyright. In case of acceptance of a manuscript for publication, the author automatically gives the editorial Board the right to distribute printed and electronic versions of the paper, as well as to place its English version of an abstract on the web-site of the digest or in a variety of electronic databases and the like; the author reserves the right to use the content of the paper in the preparation of his/her own scientific works (articles, theses, reports). Co-authors of the article can be persons who have made a significant contribution to the study of a given problem.

2. Responsibility of authors. The authors are solely responsible for the accuracy of the facts and results of the research and are obliged to participate in the review process of the articles and, if necessary, provide error corrections. The article should indicate that all data published are real and correct; in case the author uses the data of his paper furthermore, the reference to the printed / electronic copy at the official web-site of the digest is a must.

3. Peer review and responsibility of reviewers. The review should be objective and balanced. Reviewers must avoid conflicts of interest and express their views clearly and convincingly. Reviewers are to indicate relevant publications not mentioned in the article to the authors. The principle of confidentiality should be maintained in respect of all peer-reviewed articles and materials.

4. The responsibility of the editors. The editorial Board and chief editor agree to review submitted materials and make a decision on their publication. The editorial Board and chief editor may reject a manuscript without peer review if the materials do not conform to the journal's profile. The editorial Board and chief editor avoid conflicts of interest when accepting/rejecting the paper for publication. The editorial Board and chief editor shall take all necessary measures for the promulgation of the corrections and refutations in the case of error detection. The editorial Board and chief editor are committed to maintain anonymity of reviewers. The editorial Board and chief editor accept editorial policy that encourages the maximum transparency, complete and fair reporting. The editorial Board and chief editor are responsible for the integrity of the manuscripts, while reserving the right to make corrections, and to refuse to publish materials of the article.

The publication is aimed primarily at linguists, doctoral students, post graduate and undergraduate students of higher educational institutions.